Executive Summary

Introduction

The Butler County Area Agency on Aging (BCAAOA), established in 1984, is the local designated agency on aging. It is responsible for developing and providing a comprehensive, coordinated system of services and support for older adults and their families. This four-year plan is the culmination of internal and external review of the issues facing both the agency and the population served. It also incorporates major trends found in Aging Our Way, PA, and objectives and strategies outlined by the U.S. Administration on Aging/ACL.

Over the next four years, BCAAOA plans to increase the ability for our 60 and older population to age in place through a combination of outreach and preventive education, as well as home and community-based service. We hope to engage community organizations and expand partnerships to assist us in reaching these goals. Our agency strives to become more fiscally responsible, seeking ways to work more efficiently and effectively by examining services provided in homes to meet the needs of our population and promote their health and well-being.

Community Outreach & Needs Assessment

In developing the 2024-2028 plan, the BCAAOA utilized a strategic planning process to obtain input from consumers, stakeholders, other partners, and the public. Community assessment done through surveys and public meetings helped us identify needs particular to the aging population.

The BCAAOA facilitated 14 focus group sessions to discuss a range of topics facing older adults, including but not limited to, social participation, housing, health services and community supports, transportation, the built environment, communication, and civic engagement.

Through these focus groups, five broad themes emerged:

1. Protect older adults and ensure their safety and dignity
2. Address social needs of isolated individuals
3. Create an environment where diversity, equity and inclusion are prioritized
4. Empower older adults to safely remain in their homes and active in the community
5. Continue to grow and develop the caregiver support program

These goals will guide us through the next four years and the strategies we have created to meet our goals will provide us the direction necessary to be successful.

The agency operates as part of Butler County government under Human Services.

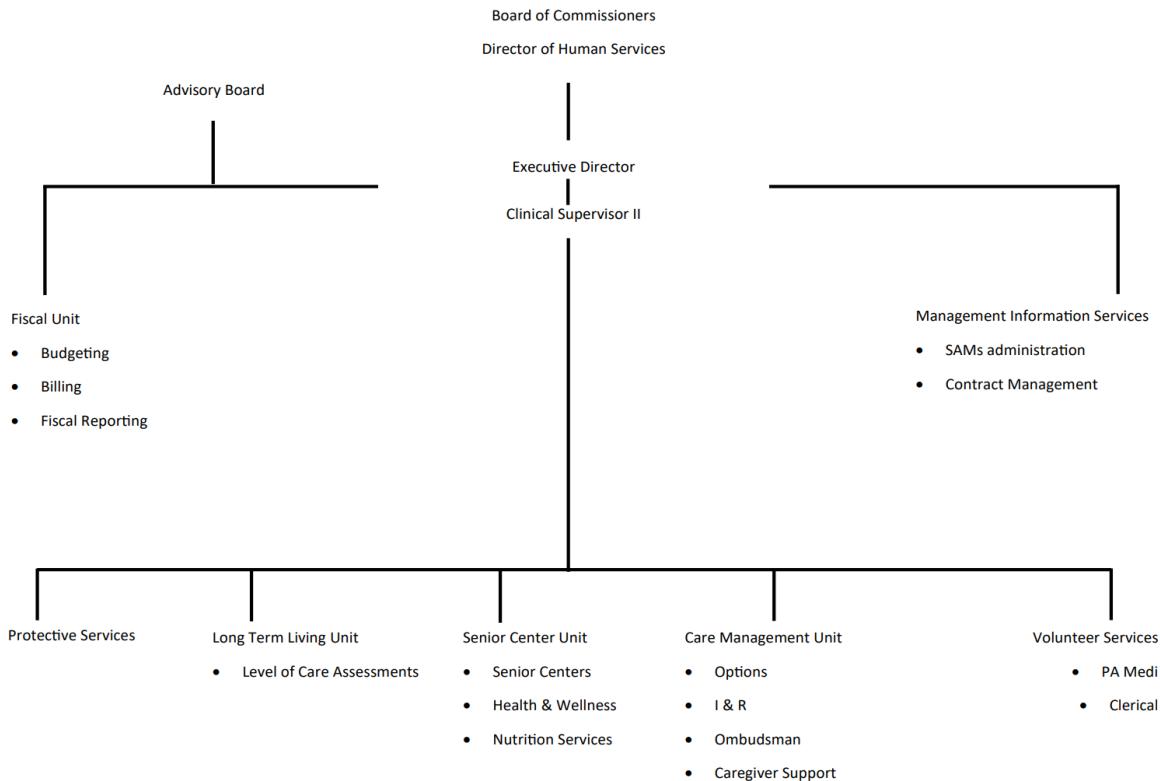

As a department of County government, the agency is governed by the Butler County Board of Commissioners with support from the BCAAOA Advisory Council. Demographics

The planning and service area for which this agency is responsible consists of 789.5 square miles within the borders of Butler County. Located in southwestern Pennsylvania, it is bound by Allegheny County to the south, Beaver and Lawrence counties to the west, Mercer and Venango counties to the North and Clarion and Armstrong counties to the east.

According to the 2022 US Census Population Estimates, Butler County has a population of 197,300. 20.8% of Butler County residents are aged 65 and older. To assist with the county's growing aging population, Butler County houses 12 skilled nursing facilities, 24 personal care and assisted living facilities, and three continuing care retirement communities.

Of the county's total population of 197,300 those individuals 60 years of age and older represent approximately one out of 4 residents. The proportion of individuals who are 60 and older has been on a gradual rise over the last 20 years and will continue through 2050. The aging baby boomer population, combined with a decrease in the younger population is a primary factor in the growth of the 60+ cohort. When comparing the 60 and older subcategory of Butler County residents to those of Pennsylvania, the growth of Butler County's aging population closely mirrors that of the state.

Butler County 60+ Population
From the Pennsylvania State Data Center, 2021

Total Population Ages 60+	54,150
Population Ages 60-84	49,829
Population Ages 85+	4,321

While much smaller in size, the total number of persons ages 85 and older is projected to outpace all other segments of the population. According to population projections from the Pennsylvania State Data Center, the 85 and older age group is expected to double by 2040, an age group that will utilize a disproportionate share of healthcare and long-term care services funding.

Per the 2022 Penn State Data Center analysis of race and ethnicity of 60 and older Butler County residents, 97.49% are White, 0.68% are African American, 0.70% are Asian, 0.64% are Hispanic, 0.35% are non-Hispanic, 2 or more races; and 0.14% all other.

Butler County 60+ Race and Ethnicity
From the Pennsylvania Data Center, 2022

Age 60+	White	African American	Asian	Hispanic	2+ Races	Other
	97.49%	0.68%	0.70%	0.64%	0.35%	0.14%
56,173	54,761	384	394	357	197	80

Poverty is a concern for Butler County Seniors. Based on 2022 estimates from the Penn State Data Center, of the 56,173 residents aged 60 and older 3,665 (6.52%), are living below the poverty line. Many older adults are struggling with rising health care and housing costs, insufficient nutrition, access to transportation and declining savings, especially those 85 and older. Older seniors are more vulnerable to financial risk, in that they are more likely to have lower earnings, exhaust retirement assets, and incur greater medical costs. Fortunately, Butler County has a strong network of community support, including Human Services, faith-based organizations, and nonprofit agencies to offer support when needed.

For older adults living independently in the community, living alone can add stress and challenges that individuals residing with a spouse or other family member often do not face. Issues regarding social isolation have become especially apparent for this group during and following the COVID-19 pandemic. Based on the U.S. Census 2022, 5-year estimates, approximately 12.7% of Butler County residents live alone. Residents aged 65 and older make up 5.2% of that population.

Other numbers of interest:

Local, political, and economic conditions:

The BCAAOA is governed under County Government with oversight from the County Commissioners. The percentage of the population of those 60 and older has increased slightly over the last several years. This increase in population, combined with current flat funding, creates a difficult situation for the aging system. These factors will require a shift in how services for older adults are provided and funded.

Community Outreach & Needs Assessment

The Butler County Area Agency on Aging (BCAAOA) began assessing the needs of the community in August 2023. Both internal and external stakeholder options were sought after during the three-month assessment period. It was our intention to reach out to as many different stakeholders as possible to get a clear picture of what our community looked like and what was needed by the population we serve.

To gain additional insight regarding current and future needs within the community, the BCAAOA conducted 14 Needs Assessment/Master Plan discussions. These discussions were framed using the framework of AARP's domains of age-friendly communities.

Discussions were advertised in local media outlets, including Butler Radio (WISR, WBUT and The Rock Station), The Butler and Cranberry Eagle News Publication, and direct mailings. Individuals unable to attend a listening session were able to receive the Aging Our Way survey via print or electronic, with an opportunity to provide feedback to PDA and directly to the BCAAOA.

The sessions were facilitated by staff including the executive director, clinical supervisor, and support staff for data collection.

During these sessions, participants were asked to share their experiences on a range of topics, including but not limited to social participation, housing, health services and community supports, transportation, the built environment, communication, and civic engagement. We had 341 attendees over the 14 sessions.

We also analyzed data from 330 consumer surveys regarding the same topics. 97.7% of respondents were Seniors aged 60 and older.

Five key themes emerged from data analyses:

1. Protect older adults and ensure their safety and dignity
 - Safety and security was discussed in 10 of 14 focus groups
 - Concerns voiced about safety and security related to uneven sidewalks, insufficient walking paths and pedestrian areas, scams, fraud, and maltreatment in nursing facilities. Another concern raised was how one can determine when it is no longer safe to live independently and for those concerned about friends/family/neighbors, the best ways to assist with this matter. One individual with low vision/blindness, expressed concern about insufficient lighting in buildings, and difficulty safely navigating the city of Butler and indoor spaces, such as grocery stores.
2. Address social needs of isolated individuals
 - 32.9% of survey respondents reported feelings of social isolation
 - Social isolation was discussed in 9 out of 14 focus groups
 - Social isolation concerns were largely related to the COVID-19 pandemic and loneliness due to self-isolating. Concern was also voiced for older adults who are homebound and lack connection to their communities and programming, resulting in a lack of knowledge regarding available resources. Participants discussed the need for more opportunities to engage with peers and programs and stay physically active, which corresponded with technology access.
3. Create an environment where diversity, equity and inclusion are prioritized
 - 80.4% of respondents feel respected as they age in the Butler County community
 - Equity and inclusion were discussed in 10 out of 14 focus groups
 - Discussion focused on access to community programs, and issues regarding inclusion of the senior and disabled communities and barriers to attend these events, such as cost, time of day, ability to navigate location, and safety
4. Empower older adults to safely remain in their homes and active in the community
 - 82.3% of survey respondents reported strong desires to age in place
 - Housing was discussed in 14 out of 14 focus groups
 - A top housing concern centered on unaffordability, including increasing costs related to homeownership, rent, property taxes, utilities, home repairs and home modifications. Relating to older-adult specific buildings, participants voiced concern about insufficient housing options, specifically long waitlists to get into buildings. For homeowners, a common topic that arose pertained to finding trustworthy companies, contractors and individuals to complete home repairs and assist with other household tasks, such as snow removal and yardwork, which was paired with numerous suggestions for the establishment of a centralized resource where older adults can refer to find vetted assistance options.

- Maintaining independence was discussed in 13 out of 14 focus groups
 - On the topic of maintaining independence, participants expressed concerns about obtaining affordable in-home assistance with tasks that enable them to continue to age in place, such as cleaning, grocery delivery, outdoor maintenance, other household chores.

5. Continue to grow and develop the caregiver support program

- 54% of survey respondents reported not having a plan in place to address aging decline and future care needs
- Care needs of both care receivers and caregivers was discussed in 12 out of 14 focus groups
 - On the topic of caregiving, participants expressed concerns regarding navigating care needs of family members, specifically related to a lack of understanding of available options for both subsidized and unsubsidized care programs, and institutional and community-based care options. Participants also voiced concerns regarding the lack of available professional caregivers, and the growing needs of the unpaid care force.

Quality Management

Several unmet needs requiring additional services and support emerged from the data examined. Needs included:

- Transportation
 - Discussed in 14 of 14 focus groups
 - Major transportation concerns are related to the lack of available in and out-of-county transportation and on demand transportation to medical appointments. Many participants expressed frustration with long wait-times/delayed arrivals and pick-ups that are too soon before an appointment for the BART shared ride service. Another concern related to the operating time of BART, with the last ride being mid-afternoon, it can be challenging for individuals to arrange transportation for appointments that occur later in the day. Additionally, another challenge of the BART system was that it is only operational in specific areas of the county on specific days, which can be an issue when certain medical providers are only available on certain days, without any available transportation option.
- Health Care:
 - Discussed in 14 of 14 focus groups
 - The general theme related to health care centered on affordability. Common concerns related to obtaining costly equipment, supplies and treatments, such as dental procedures and hearing aids, not covered by insurance. Another repeatedly voiced concern related to obtaining medication when transportation or leaving one's home was a barrier. Additionally, the rising costs of medication came up in discussion. Lastly, the need for better care coordination was mentioned, including better access to scheduling and results, especially for seniors who lack technology, such as online scheduling platforms and smart phones to access virtual appointments and online health records.

- Economic Security:
 - Discussed in 12 of the 14 focus groups
 - Discussions that centered on economic security related to increasing cost of living for Butler County seniors on a fixed income. Specifically, participants mentioned the unaffordability of nutritious food, increasing property tax rates, high rental costs and the high costs of technology and internet. Additionally, insufficient retirement income was voiced as a concern.
- Nutrition
 - Discussed in 8 of the 14 focus groups
 - Nutrition concerns voiced included food insecurity, unaffordability of health food items, such as fresh produce, lack of affordable or free grocery delivery, especially for older adults with mobility difficulties, and those unable to leave their homes due to illness. Another area of concern related to the quality of home delivered and congregate meals, and the desire to have more options available for individuals with dietary or cultural food restrictions.

The BCAAOA serves as a no-wrong door program, and has the ability to connect community members to partner organizations and agencies to fill gaps identified by seniors in the discussion and survey, as well as in an as needed capacity. Participants at our sessions recognized this ability of the BCAAOA to provide community connection. The BCAAOA will continue to facilitate and grow partnerships with other governmental, faith-based organizations and non-profit agencies to maintain high standing as a reliable entity to connect Butler County's aging residents to needed resources.

This will be achieved through collaboration with local and state emergency response agencies, relief organizations, local and state governments, and other disaster relief service delivery institutions. The plan's goal is to ensure that the older adult population needs are adequately identified and met during emergencies through timely, efficient, and coordinated efforts.

- To achieve an effective long-range emergency preparedness plan, the AAA will conduct awareness campaigns to inform older adults and their caregivers about emergency preparedness measures. The AAA emergency plan outlines a structured approach to enhance the preparedness and response capabilities of the AAA in collaboration with key partners. By prioritizing the needs of the older adult population and ensuring their inclusion in the planning and response activities, the established plan will mitigate the impact of emergencies on this population.

Discussions were advertised in local media outlets, including Butler Radio (WISR, WBUT and The Rock Station), The Butler and Cranberry Eagle News Publication, and direct mailings. Individuals unable to attend a listening session were able to receive the Aging Our Way survey via print or electronic, with an opportunity to provide feedback to PDA and directly to the BCAAOA.

The sessions were facilitated by staff including the executive director, clinical supervisor, and support staff for data collection.

During these sessions, participants were asked to share their experiences on a range of topics, including but not limited to social participation, housing, health services and community supports, transportation, the built environment, communication, and civic engagement. We had 341 attendees over the 14 sessions. On average, sessions lasted two hours, with the availability of the executive director, clinical supervisor, and support staff to remain on site for individual discussion.

Many attendees of the discussion groups recognized that the agency does a great job regarding outreach, accessibility and availability of programs and services.

We also analyzed data from 330 consumer surveys regarding the same topics. 97.7% of respondents were Seniors aged 60 and older.

The Butler County Area Agency on Aging appreciated the feedback and interest to those present to understand the four-year planning process and the growing needs of the agency.
